

COAL OPERATORS TO CONTINUE SHIPPING COAL TO STEEL FIRMS

Strike in Vast Coal Fields of Western Pennsylvania Threatened

QUOTE AGREEMENT Claim Refusal To Sell Would Be Violation of Their Agreement

PITTSBURGH, June 17—(INS)—A strike in the vast coal fields of western Pennsylvania threatened today as commercial coal operators defied John L. Lewis to stop them from shipping coal to strike-bound steel companies. The operators, meeting in a special session of the Western Pennsylvania Coal Operators' Association, served formal notice on Lewis that they "will not be parties in any manner to any boycott or attempt to boycott of any purchaser of coal from mines in this field."

They openly denounced Lewis' warning not to ship coal to any of the strike-bound steel companies—Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Republic Steel, or Inland Steel, whose captive mines were closed three days ago by strike. Close to 12,000 employed in the mines were affected.

They charged that by such action "You are here proposing openly and deliberately to violate your agreement with the coal operators of Western Pennsylvania."

The operators, in a letter to Lewis, stated further that they "will not acquiesce in any such policy if attempted by you nor will they acquiesce in any suggested modification of our contract for any such purpose, direct or indirect, but that they will hold you and your organization to the full measure of responsibility for the faithful performance of your contract with this association and its members."

They acknowledged receipt of Lewis' warning, delivered personally to the Operators' Association here by three district presidents of the United Mine Workers of America, of which Lewis is international president, in which the CIO leader was quoted as saying:

"In event these steel companies undertake to transfer the production of their coal tonnage from captive to commercial operations, the United Mine Workers of America reserves the right to take such action as may be necessary to protect its interests."

These totals represent an increase of 11.9 per cent in volume and 16.3 per cent in value as compared with 1935, the previous peak record for the Port of Philadelphia.

While this high record is reflective of the progressive movement by water of crude petroleum and its products, the District Engineer reports that practically all water-borne commerce showed an increase in 1935. The evidence of general recovery in maritime trades is reflected in the number of vessels passing in and out of the Delaware in foreign and coastwise commerce. These totaled 18,068 trips, inbound and outbound, of steamers, motor vessels, schooners, barges and lighters, with loaded drafts ranging from approximately eight feet up to 33 feet. Trips and drafts of vessels in local movements on the river are not of record.

3. British steamer carried $50,000,000 in Basque gold and securities, as the Basque officials feared treasury might be confiscated.

WATER SUPPLY STILL MORRISVILLE'S MAIN TOPIC

Chamber of Commerce Hopes Subject Will Be Kept Before the Public

WOULD MEAN PROGRESS

MORRISVILLE, June 17—Discussion of the water problem here continues and at a recent meeting of the Chamber of Commerce the subject was again aired when the desire was expressed that the topic be kept before the public, so that results might be obtained.

George W. Balderston, president of the Morrisville Bank, expressed the belief that Morrisville would experience a wonderful growth should a good supply of pure well water be available for the borough instead of the water from the river.

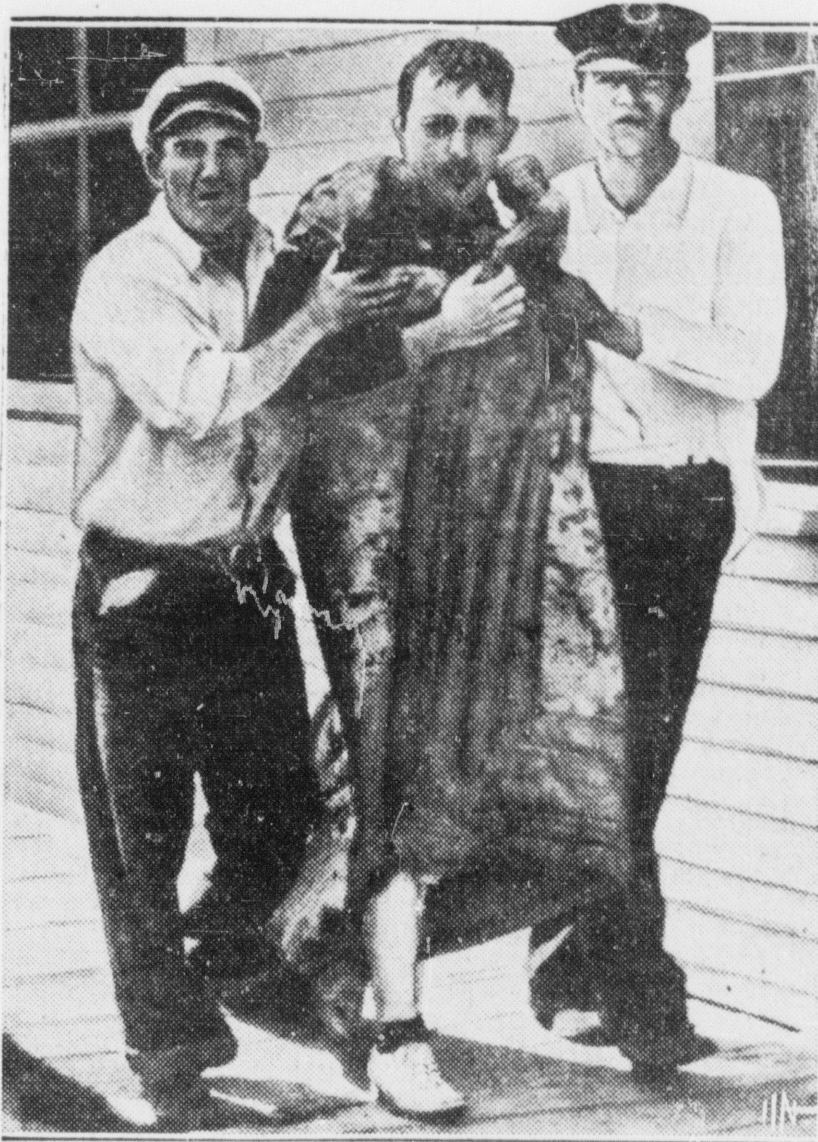

Former Councilman John G. Bleasdale told the group that tests made here showed an abundant supply of water available. He also added that the well system, with the treating necessary, would still be cheaper than the cost of remodeling the present filter plant.

George F. Willard reported on the progress being made on the dyke which is being erected along the Delaware River and extending between the two bridges. President George W. Burgner discussed the question of whether the old railroad yards here would not be available for some large industry and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will be contacted with a view of endeavoring to interest it in trying to locate some large industry there.

THREE MEN STABBED AT BETHLEHEM GATE

The Population of Johnstown Reported in Agitated Frame of Mind Over the Strike

STATEMENT IS ISSUED

By James L. Kilgallen (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 17—(INS)—Tension was drawn to a finer edge here today following the stabbing of three men last night, two white strikers and a Negro worker, in a fight at the time gate of the Bethlehem Steel plant at Franklin borough, a suburb.

The city of Johnstown, population 116,000, was meanwhile in an agitated frame of mind with about 500 armed vigilantes cruising the streets hunting down marauders who, they say, have been intimidating families of non-strikers. Several hundred state and local policemen were in evidence on all sides, patrolling the city and the seven-mile steel front.

An official statement issued by S. D. Evans, representing the Cambria plant of the Bethlehem company, rejected the suggestion of Philip Murray, chairman of the steel workers' organizing committee, that an election be held in all of the Bethlehem plants with the stipulation if it develops the union has a majority.

Evans, in a telegram to Murray, declared Bethlehem Steel has not been convinced that signed agreement will be of advantage to its employees, the community or the company.

After stating the company has never refused to bargain with representatives of Murray's committee on behalf of those of its employees whom it represents, and that the company will continue to meet with such representatives, Evans asserted:

"Your action in calling a strike at this plant is not based on any claim that the terms of employment are unsatisfactory but rather for the purpose of forcing our employees to join your union and pay for a chance to work."

"We cannot legally and we will not knowingly be a party to the coercing and intimidating of our employees as your telegram asks us to do. Your determination to coerce and intimidate our employees is clearly shown by the lawless methods employed by your committee here at Johnstown."

Evans said Bethlehem's employees want to work but Murray's organization has sought to prevent them from doing so, adding:

"Your armed pickets have ruthlessly attacked our employees who have at a great personal peril continued to work. Your pickets have intimidated our employees and their families and have brought disorder and anarchy into a peaceful city and have disrupted the normal life of the entire community."

The fight at the time gate of the Bethlehem plant last night whipped up excitement in this already seething city. The battle broke out suddenly. One of the strikers, Joseph Michura, a miner helping the steel workers on the picket line, received a knife wound in the left lung and was taken in an unconscious condition to a hospital. John Babik, a picket, was stabbed four times in the side, and Thomas Simms, a 56-year-old Negro, was stabbed in the left wrist.

According to the State Police, Simms was on his way to work in the mills when the melee began. As he got off a

Blaze Destroys Buildings At Chalfont; Origin Unknown

CHALFONT, June 17—Howard A. Clymer, Chalfont butcher and former Deputy Sheriff of Bucks county, was stepping into a friend's automobile in front of his house, Tuesday night, to go to his Kiwanis Club meeting in Doylestown, when someone yelled out: "Fire!"

Clymer glanced toward his house and to his surprise saw smoke and fire coming out of a building in the rear of his dwelling that was used as a garage and butcher shop. He changed his mind about attending his club meeting and called the Chalfont Fire Company instead.

Clymer said he was unable to definitely estimate the loss and that he could not state what caused the fire, unless it was a short circuit in one of the two automobiles parked in the garage.

The fire destroyed the garage and two pleasure cars, one belonging to Clymer and the other to his uncle, Abram Clymer. Part of the butcher shop was destroyed, but firemen prevented a complete destruction of the end of the building where the butcher shop is located. It was necessary to destroy a quantity of meat that was in a large refrigerator in the butcher shop. Butcher equipment was destroyed.

HULMEVILLE CHURCH TO OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY

The Very Rev. Charles Eder Will Preach On Wednesday Evening

SOME HISTORICAL FACTS

HULMEVILLE, June 17—Grace Episcopal Church will celebrate the 100th anniversary of its consecration when the Very Rev. Charles Eder, D. D., will speak, on Wednesday evening, June 23.

Members of other parishes have been invited to attend this 100th anniversary service.

The history of Grace Church dates back to 1827, when a church school was organized. In 1828 the Rev. Richard Hall, of St. James's Church, Bristol, held services in the school house. In the summer, seats were arranged in School House Woods, where services were held. During this period the popularity of St. James's grew, and it was necessary to enlarge the church. But the Rev. Fedgely, of Bristol, filled with the missionary spirit, suggested that the matter be abandoned and a church building be provided for the people of Hulmeville. The trustees were able to collect sufficient funds and the church was erected in 1837. The interior of the church was very rustic, because the funds raised did not include interior furniture. In 1832 the building was used as a temporary hospital.

In the year 1837 the mission at Hulmeville was organized into a parish, obtaining its charter from the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, and was formally admitted into the diocese at the annual convention of the diocese held in Philadelphia, May, 1837. The church was consecrated by Bishop William White's coadjutor, Bishop Henry Ustick Onderdonk. 1836 marked the closing years of Bishop White, the first Bishop of Pennsylvania, being consecrated in England, 1787, following the Revolutionary War.

1937 marks the 100th year of the consecration of Grace Church. The event will be remembered by a number of services during the month of June and also in the fall. The consecration anniversary will be remembered on Sunday, June 20th, at which time two memorials will be consecrated. The service will be held at 11 o'clock. The Rev. Albert F. Fischer, Jr., vicar, will be in charge of the service. Special music has been arranged with the assistance of the Langhorne Choral Society. On Wednesday, June 23, the community of Hulmeville and friends are invited to attend the community service. The Very Rev. Charles Eder, D. D., will deliver the sermon. The service will be held at eight p. m.

Sunday, June 27th, will mark the 100th anniversary of the first communion service held in Grace Church, after the consecration. The 100th anniversary of the first rector, the Rev. George Kirk, will be celebrated at that time. Every confirmed member of Grace Church has been requested to take communion on that day. Two services will be held, one at 8 a. m., another at 11 a. m. The Rev. Waldo Parker, minister in charge of the County Center Missions, will participate in the service with the minister in charge, the Rev. Albert Fischer, Jr.

MOTORBOAT FLEET HERE NUMBERS 29 AT ANCHOR CLUB

Twenty-Two Craft Already in The Water in Front of Club House

FIVE NEW MEMBERS JOIN

Some Improvements Being Made To The Club House

With 22 motorboats already in the water here in front of the Anchor Yacht Club members are preparing for a big season during the coming summer months. Seven other boats belonging to members of the local club have also been launched but are anchored at other points along the river.

Five new members have been accepted by the Club, according to an announcement of the secretary, Ed Dougherty. Robert Welks, Mill street, is one of the new members. Mr. Welks has a new outboard motorboat. Herbert Roberts, Darby, Pa., another new member, has a Mullins steel-hulled motorboat. Robert Sidle, Langhorne, Homer Clayton, and Frank Liese are the other new members. Sidle has launched a new 12-foot sail boat, while Liese and Clayton both have new boats.

Work on the club house along the Delaware here has been concerned mostly with the porch. One-half of the porch has been screened in. Equipment for a new marine railway is now on the ground and it is expected that work on its erection will begin very soon.

Among the new and remodeled boats is included a new boat owned by William Warner. The boat, "Whiz-Away," is a powerful 20 footer, propelled by a new 85 horse-power engine. It is said by members that the craft will attain a speed in excess of 35 miles per hour.

Another addition to the new boats this year is one owned by George Irwin. Irwin is having the boat remodeled into a 25-foot glass cabin cruiser. This is the first year that Mr. Irwin has had a boat at the club here.

Dr. A. Gonzales has a new and bigger boat this season with his acquisition of a new 38-footer. Damon Jobson also has a new 40-foot boat. This boat, which has a 16-foot cockpit, is propelled by a 125 horse-power motor.

Paul Townsend, Langhorne, is expected to bring his boat to the Anchor Yacht Club here. Townsend's boat is now at Tuckerton. Frank Nogradi, Doylestown, also has a new boat in his 24-foot day cruiser. This is the first boat that Nogradi had here.

In the sailboat class Dr. William L. Noe, Jr., Langhorne, already the owner of one sailboat, has added another one this season. Frank Lunderbough has just launched his 12-foot sailboat.

After spending several weeks putting their small rowboat in shape, the Weik sisters, Gladys and Thelma, are about ready to launch their craft.

Boats belonging to a half dozen other members will probably be launched within the next ten days. Plans for cruises and later summer boating activities have not as yet been completed, but it is expected that several of the members will leave for cruises later on in the season.

WHAT A FRUIT!

Who will again doubt the benevolence of science? No grower, barterer or lover of watermelon will, at least.

Whether fruit, vegetable or herb, the watermelon has always had a host of friends. People like berries, grape fruit, peaches and cantaloupe, but their attachment to the watermelon is something deeper and more enduring.

One thing only the watermelon was thought to lack. It is beautiful; it is luscious; it is satisfying. Its outer shell of somber green, inner lining of white, its luscious red contrasting irresistibly with the rich mahogany of its ripened seeds, are as satisfying to the painter as its full-flavored sweetness to the epicure.

But still it was supposed to fall short of the ideal. For even those most addicted to its consumption never gave it credit for being nourishing.

Here is where science proves its benevolence. The department of agriculture has discovered that watermelons are chock-full of four kinds of vitamins. Any fruit, or whatever a watermelon is, that boasts of one vitamin can get by with the dietitians. But four of them! What a fruit!

That reminds us the first watermelons ought to be along soon.

ANIMALS' NERVES

Cornell University buys a farm to study the problems of animals suffering from nervous disorders. A recent story of a college farm-bred pig that got the jitters because of a feeding trick, was an account of but one of the experiments. The theory is to be tested that some nervous disorders are hereditary.

The fact that animals under certain conditions get frazzled nerves is familiar to most rural people who never thought of extending their study of animal psychology. A naturally kindly dog kept tied up in the back yard may become vicious. A colt given impossible tasks and cruelly treated while being trained for work, may become balky or ugly.

The Cornell experiment will follow the effects of animal nervous disorders through generations of the afflicted and will analyze the nervous tissues of such animals to try to discover what breakdown actually occurs in the brain and nerves when the erratic conduct of nervous disorder is manifested. Through comparative studies something may be learned to help the large number of human beings who find a ready excuse in nerves for their oddities.

SALT

Probably a lot of people quit buying iodized salt when they read recently that a noted surgeon had kicked over the theory that use of iodine prevents goiter. If so, they have acted hastily.

Dr. D. M. Cowie, chairman of the iodized salt committee of the Michigan State Medical Society, refuses to take issue with the medical authority who claims to have discovered that goiter is a sort of fungus growth produced by spores. He insists, however, that Michigan has proved the use of iodine salt has about wiped out endemic goiter in Michigan in 10 years.

Since that is a matter of scientific record it will be well for people to stick to the salt that contains a percentage of iodine.

MISSING MARRIAGE LICENSE

BELLEVIEW, Ill. — (INS) — Clarence Mullet will never forget the favor that Deputy Clerk John D. Prindable did for him.

Mullet was scheduled to be married to Miss Reola Joyce Dudley, but less than an hour before the wedding he could not find the marriage license. He looked high and low, but no license was to be found. Mullet finally called upon Prindable for help. The deputy clerk solved Mullet's problem, issuing a duplicate license which was delivered to the prospective bridegroom in time for the ceremony.

SEW DUCK'S WOUNDS

SEATTLE, Wash. — (INS) — Donald the Duck awaits his owner at a Seattle pet shop, after being repaired with cellophane.

The bird, badly injured by a dog, was brought to Mrs. Jim Barnier, the proprietor. She sewed up his wounds with strips of cellophane, and he recovered. But no one has appeared to claim him.

ENTERTAINS CLASS AT A DELIGHTFUL EVENING MEETING

Mrs. Rex Hunter, Beaver Road and Venice avenue, was a pleasing hostess, Tuesday evening, to the Sunday School class of Bristol M. E. Church taught by Miss Anna Heritage.

The regular monthly business meeting was held and routine business transacted. This was followed by games and a repast. Twenty-two members were present, including: Miss Anna Heritage, Mrs. Charles Rathke, Mrs. William Winslow, Mrs. Richard Winslow, Mrs. Walter Molden, Mrs. Wilkinson Bracken, Mrs. Arthur Spicer, Mrs. John Smoyer, Mrs. Wm. Kershaw, Mrs. Moss Shatzer, Mrs. Robert Sutton, Mrs. Harry Sutton, Mrs. Hutchinson, Mrs. Harry Hughes, Mrs. Elizabeth Tolen and Mrs. Frank Hampton, and the Misses Verna Miller, Helen Appleton, Jessie Mansell, Elizabeth Rishel and Edna McClune.

The impact of a cold bath or shower, cooling as it seems during the process of taking, is deceptive. Cold water stimulates the body, and quickly makes us warmer rather than cooler. The cold water contracts the blood vessels of the skin and causes a nervous shock which acts as a stimulant. The first cooling shiver sent through the body by the cold water is quickly overcome by the nervous stimulation and the final reaction is one of heat. By the same token, the warm bath leaves a cooling reaction because its first effect is to bring an increased amount of blood to the skin, and this subsidies to normal after the bath, leaving a refreshed sensation. An extremely pleasant method for continuing the cooling effect of a bath, when there is plenty of time, is to drape a clean sheet around the wet body, lie down, and let the moisture evaporate. If time is short, however, let the towel-drying be a blotting process instead of a matter of rubbing.

It is essential, of course, to follow the bath by a change into clean clothes. If it is a bedtime bath, see that night clothes are fresh. Clean sheets and pillow cases, smooth and unwrinkled, will be welcomed by the heat-wearied body.

Children sometimes object to having their play interrupted even on a torrid afternoon for the pre-dinner washing. A compromise may be worked out where there is a garden hose and a yard. The hose bath will seem like a continuation of the play period, and may be made quite as effective as a bath indoors. The flow of the water should be kept quite low, and if a sprinkler arrangement can be attached to the nozzle the impact of the water can be spread instead of concentrated on one small part of the child's body. The sprinkler may be hung

COOL OFF WITH BATH IN WARM WATER ON HOT SUMMER DAYS

By Miss Edna Stephany (Home Economics Representative)

How many baths a day is it safe to take? As the thermometer goes up and the sweat rolls down, even recalcitrant little boys are apt to consider the bath quite the most pleasant place in the world. Adults, too, magically find time for two, or even three tub-baths or showers. And then someone raises the question—how many baths a day is it safe to take?

The answer is simple—within reason there is no limit to the number. The human body is thoroughly waterproof, and if the summer baths are quickly taken (without being hasty about the matter, however) if the water temperature is kept slightly higher than lukewarm but not hot, then baths may be repeated as often as body refreshment is desired.

It is natural that we should turn to the bath for summer comfort. Perspiration flows much more freely, more waste matter is deposited on our skins and our oil glands are more active. Warm weather brings an uninvited sticky feeling; odors are likely to cling more stubbornly and even make us unpleasant companions. Then, too, heat often drives away sleep and irritates our nervous systems so that rest seems impossible. A warm sudsy bath taken before bed-time gives a soothing sense that often induces sleep on even a humid airless night.

BOTTLE-FED MOOSE

DILLON, Mont.—(INS)—Bottle-fed and fully protected, a yearling moose has the run of the swampy lowlands on the Beaverhead county ranch of Frank Hazelbaker, Republican candidate for governor of Montana at the last election. The animal was saved from drowning while a tiny calf last year by Charles L. Foster, who found it marooned on a pile of driftwood in Wise river.

SACRED ZEBUS

CLEVELAND, O.—(INS)—A pair of Brahman zebus, sacred cattle from India, may become property of the Brookside Zoo here as the result of city council's approval of a trade with the Crowell-Giord Company, of Port Arthur, Texas.

The Zoo would send five pony colts and a pony mare for the Asiatic zebus, animals which have never before been displayed here.

ONE DOLLAR A HONK

PORTLAND, Ore.—(INS)—W. C. Robinson is glad that he didn't lose his temper completely when he was held up by a traffic jam. He was brought into police court here and fined for honking his horn during the tie-up. The fine was $3—one dollar a honk.

Cadet Uniforms To Cost
Approximately $1200

The Cadet Corps and the Cadet Boosters' Association is given as $800, which leaves the sum of $300 yet necessary to raise for the project.

The following quotation is given from a recent letter:

"Enclosed please find check for the Cadets uniforms. In giving in the amount to the people please do not give my name, just say 'a friend,' for I do feel friendly."

The boys appreciate this friendliness and it is their earnest plea that those intending to give not delay doing so longer so that they may be in a position to meet the cost of the equipment.

Those desiring to help this worthy cause are requested to call the American Legion (9337) for representative or mail to I. J. Hetherington, 145 Buckley street, Bristol.

street car in front of the time gate, he was surrounded by pickets, and in a few seconds the battle was on. State troopers broke up the fight.

A special meeting of the local post of the American Legion was held last night. Walter J. Kress, state commander of the Legion, later asserted the Legion as a body would not take part in the strike, unless law and order should completely break down in the city. He said the Legion as an organization would not take sides in the issue, and that if Legion members appeared among the city police they were acting on their own responsibility as individuals.

The threatened "back-to-work" march had not begun this morning, despite intiminations that such a movement was planned.

WAR-HORSES PENSIONED

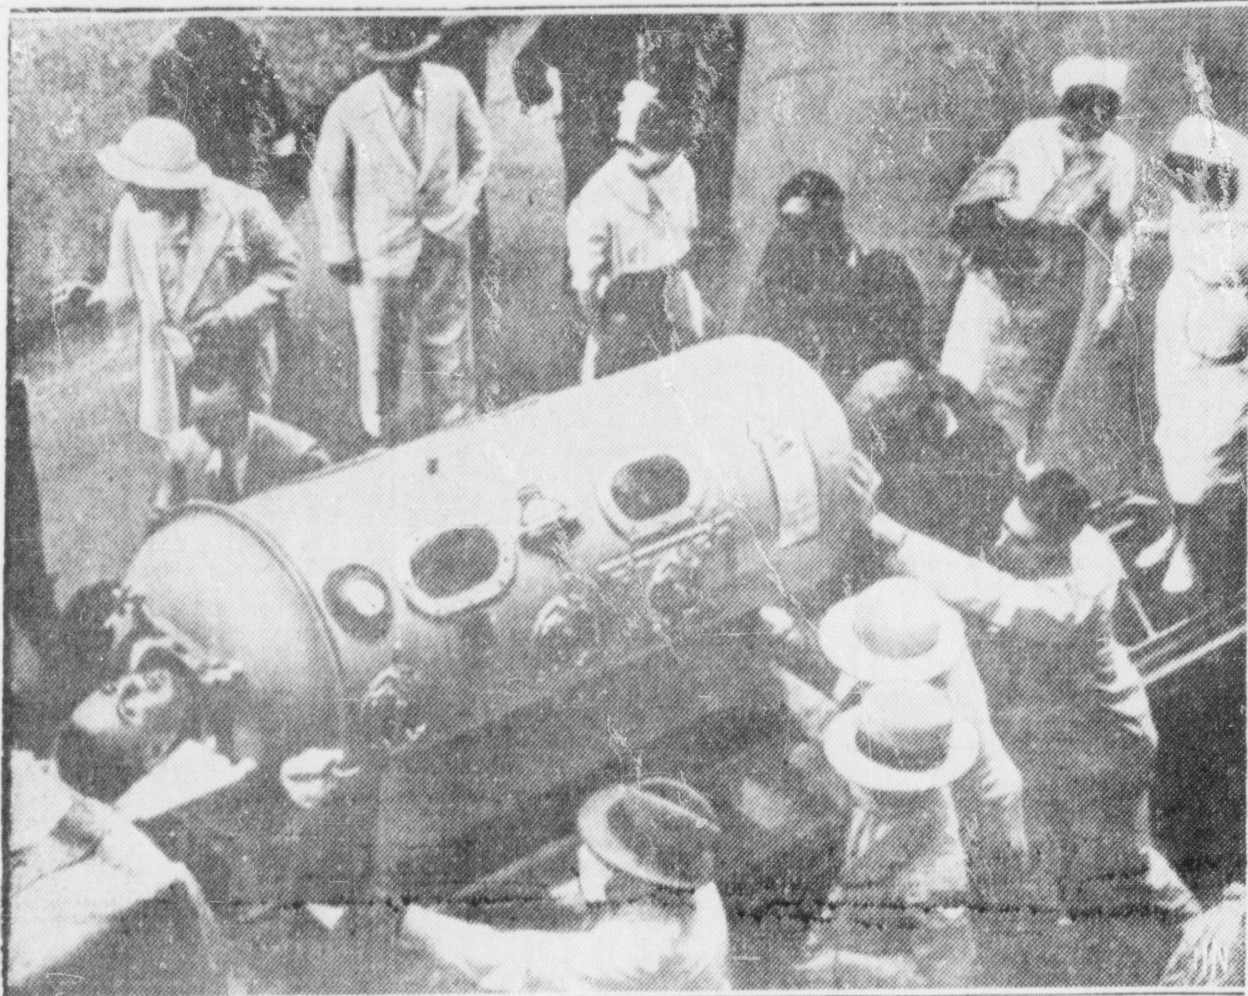

VIENNA--(INS)--Veteran war-horses will be decorated and will receive a sort of old age pension in Austria.

The movement to provide the surviving horses of the former imperial army with shelter and feed them for the rest of their lives from public funds, is probably connected with the revived military spirit in Central Europe.

SUPERSTITION HOLDS

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C.--(INS)--In deference to an old superstition of seamen, a new pilot boat built at a local shipyard was not launched when scheduled. Veteran pilots protested and the ceremony was postponed, because the day happened to be Friday.

Youth on Long Journey in "Iron Lung"

Elaborate precautions against infection and loss of time have been made along the route which Frederick Snite, Jr., is taking from China where he was stricken with infantile paralysis during a world tour. He is shown in an "iron lung" aboard the President Coolidge at Shanghai. Longshoremen in surgical gowns and masks will transfer him to a specially rebuilt pullman car at San Francisco for the trip to Chicago, his home.

Coal Operators Continue

right to withdraw its membership from coal production and such properties."

Over the signature of Byron H. Canon, secretary of the Operators' Association, the coal owners wrote Lewis in addition, after a unanimous vote:

"The right which you assert the United Mine Workers of America reserves; viz. to withdraw their membership from coal production as stated in this telegram, is a right which they do not possess, because under the explicit terms of the contract between the United Mine Workers of America and this Association, any such right is expressly negated."

The operators quoted terms of the contract between the Union and the Association, which, they claimed, stated:

"The Operators shall at all times be at liberty to load coal into any transportation equipment whatsoever, regardless of ownership, and to sell and deliver coal loaded into such equipment in any market and to any person, firm or corporation."

"Therefore," wrote the Operators in their letter to Lewis, "Any refusal on the part of the membership of the United Mine Workers of America faithfully to carry out this provision of the contract is a deliberate violation of its terms."

The Operators denounced Lewis' action as "the more astounding in view of the fact that you, yourself, as president of the United Mine Workers of America, have signed that agreement under the following guarantee of faithful performance:

"The performance of the obligations of the United Mine Workers of America, Districts Nos. 2, 4 and 5, under the above agreement with the Western Operators' Association is guaranteed by the International Union, United Mine Workers of America, and its officers, pursuant to authority empowering them to do so."

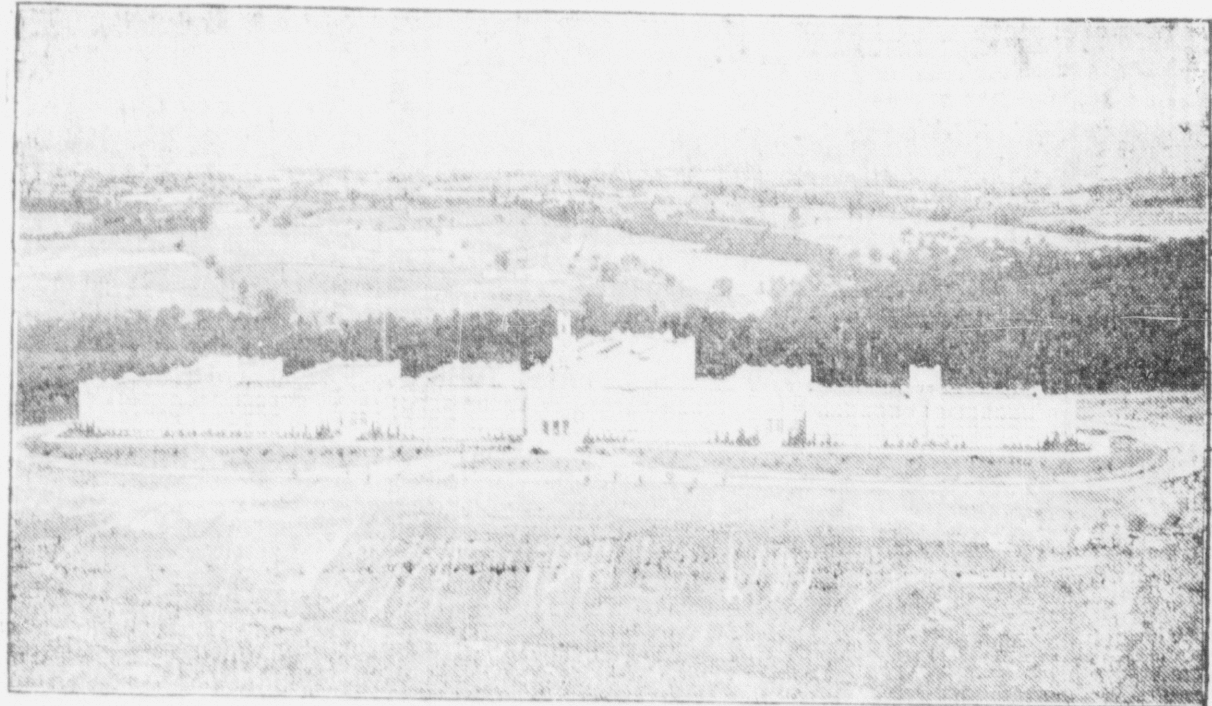

Should there be a "spontaneous" refusal on the part of the Union miners to load coal for delivery to strike-bound steel mills, continued the Operators' letter, "Such action would be conclusive proof that you and your officials, after 40 years' existence of the United Mine Workers of America, have no effective control of its membership in carrying out your agreements, and that, therefore, a contract with the United Mine Workers of America is futile and worthless."

The Operators charged, moreover, that should such "spontaneous" action develop they would not regard it in such a light.

"There is good reason in this instance to believe that such action on the part of your members would not be 'spontaneous,'" continued the Operators' letter. "Here is a telegram from you, president of the International Union, United Mine Workers of America, suggesting a violation of contract, obviously intended, by attendant publicity in the newspapers, to incite your membership to disregard the provisions of your agreement with our Association."

REQUESTED RECIPES

Applesauce Spice Cake

Cream one-third cup shortening. Add one cup sugar slowly, beating well. Add two-thirds cup seedless raisins. Mix and sift together two cups flour, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon soda, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoon cloves, one fourth teaspoon mace. Blend with creamed mixture.

This mix may be prepared in advance, if desired, and stored in the refrigerator. When ready for baking, break up mixture. Beat one egg slightly and add to one cup thick applesauce. Then add to cake mixture.

Mix thoroughly, pour into greased loaf pan and bake in moderate oven 40 to 50 minutes. One-third to one-half cup chopped nuts may be added to this recipe.

Stuffed Lamb Chops

Four large lamb chops, one cup crushed pineapple, one-half cup finely cut celery, one-half cup fine dry crumbs, two eggs, one-fourth cup milk, one-third cup flour, one-half cup pineapple juice, salt.

Select loin chops one inch thick and slit the chops through the center to the bone to form a pocket. Sprinkle with salt.

Prepare a filling, using crushed pineapple, celery and crumbs. Stuff chops and fasten securely with toothpicks. Make a batter with the flour, eggs and milk and beat until very smooth.

Dip each chop, covering well and fry immediately in deep fat heated to 350 degrees F. until a golden brown. Drain from fat, place in a baking dish, cover with pineapple juice and cover tightly. Bake in a 400 degree F. oven for one hour. The fruit juice gives the chops a delicate flavor and makes this a real party treat.

GREEN PEAS BELONG TO MONTH OF JUNE

Green peas are associated with June, even as are the salads. Fresh peas are inclined to lose their flavor if they are shelled several hours before serving.

Put the water on to boil when you begin to shell the peas, shelling them directly into the cold water. Drain quickly, cover with boiling water and cook 20 to 25 minutes, depending on age. Taste occasionally, since tender peas are spoiled by overcooking.

A sprig of mint boiled with the peas adds delicious flavor, even as it does with new potatoes. If mint is not available, try parsley. Be generous in adding butter.

For pea fricassee, use two cups cooked peas, one tablespoon butter, three tablespoons chopped ham or tongue. Heat the cooked peas in melted butter and mix with the chopped meat.

Large peas may be utilized in a puree for a novelty. Use four cups shelled peas, one onion, two tablespoons butter, one teaspoon salt and one-eighth teaspoon pepper.

Place peas in saucepan with enough water to cover. When tender press through ricer, or a fine sieve. Add butter and seasoning and serve hot.

Cooked left-over peas have many uses in creamed dishes, patties, salads, soups and in a batter for French-frying. Here is one salad suggestion:

One cup cold cooked peas, one cup chopped raw celery, one-half cup French dressing, one teaspoon chopped mint, one-half teaspoon grated onion. Mix well, chill and serve on a bed of crisp greens.

EMILIE

Mr. and Mrs. Willett Hibbs and sons, Newtown, were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis V. Cox.

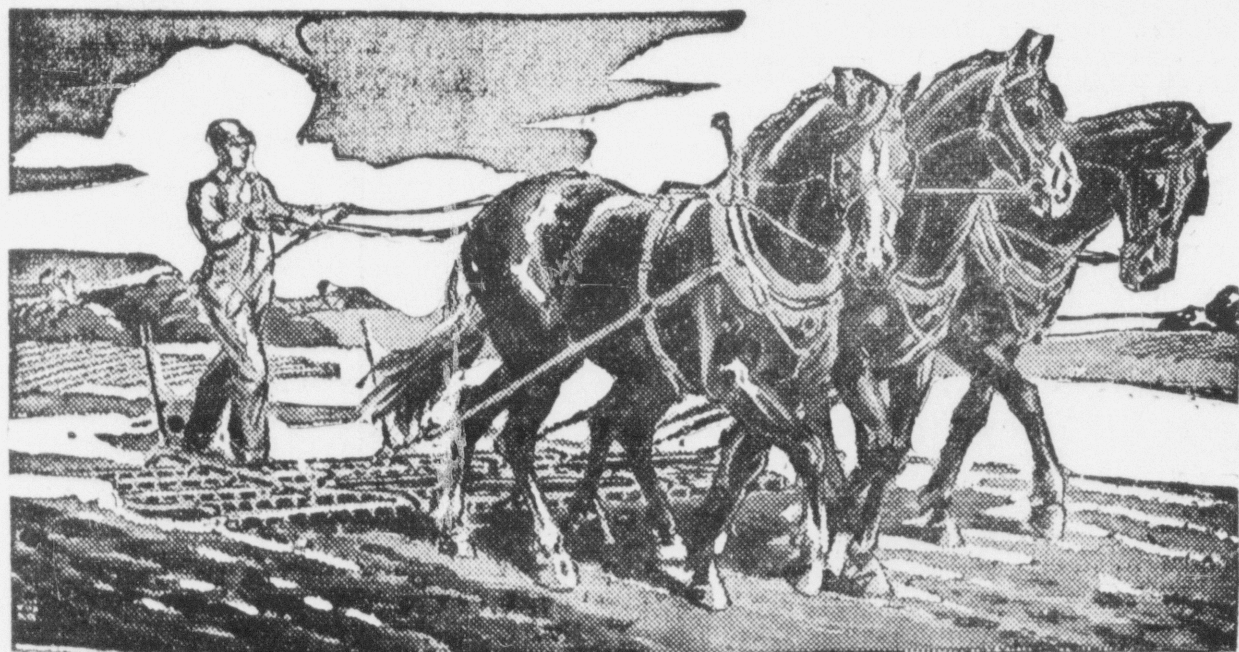

Wheatland, on Marietta avenue, Lancaster, was the home of James Buchanan before and after he was President of the United States. It has become a shrine for the nation and will be preserved in its original beauty as a monument to the dignified life of a great Pennsylvanian, the only son of the Keystone State to gain the honor of serving as Chief Executive of the American nation.

The Buchanan Foundation for the Preservation of Wheatland has restored this historic building and has opened it to visitors for inspection. It was here that James Buchanan conducted "front porch campaigns" as a candidate for the Presidency.

After a brilliant career of Senator, Secretary of State, Ambassador to St. Petersburg and London, Buchanan tried very ardently, as 15th President of the United States, to prevent the Civil War. In this he failed. He returned to Wheatland and there spent the rest of his life with his niece, Harriet Lane Johnston, who, it is said, was the loveliest mistress the White House has ever known.

MOVIE MAN'S DAYS ARE NEVER DULL, HE SAYS

Frankie Hutter Celebrates His 30th Anniversary In Motion Pictures

HAS FILLED MANY ROLES

By Milton Harker

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, June 17—(INS)—Celebrating his 30th anniversary in motion pictures, Frankie Hutter says he never has had a really dull day.

There isn't much he has missed. He has been an animal trainer, property man, dare-devil for silent screen stars, a producer and an expert in explosives.

Hutter has just completed one of his toughest and most dangerous assignments at Universal. He had to handle all the explosive effects for Eric Maria Remarque's "The Road Back," sequel to "All Quiet on the Western Front."

He got the job because he is regarded as Hollywood's outstanding powder expert.

It wasn't Hutter's fault he did not see some real war action. In 1918 he enlisted in the U. S. Army aviation corps. He had made plenty of money in the movies and felt even the front line activity might offer a little diversion. But he never reached Europe. He was assigned to leave for England, but two days before he was due to sail the armistice was signed.

"So I returned to Hollywood, still with plenty of money," Hutter recalls. "I started production of my own pictures and lost my shirt."

He then returned to Universal, where he had his first job, and handled the explosives successfully for "Private Jones," "Waterloo Bridge" and for "All Quiet on the Western Front."

As the result of his experiences on his latest picture, he thinks "war films are getting tougher."

"Realism is requisite on the screen," he pointed out. "When you have a big explosion on the screen, a big explosion actually must take place."

But through it all, he is contented and happy.

"There's never a dull day in Hollywood," he explained. "That's why I'll never leave the movies. It's hard work and long hours, but the excitement of film production is worth all the hard work."

Born in Italy 44 years ago, Hutter came to Hollywood in 1907. His first job was with Universal—in charge of the zoo. For three years he developed the histrionic talents of giraffes, tigers, lions, zebras and other ex-jungle residents for movie appearances.

Because he had played with the wild animals it was only natural he should become a "double" for the silent picture stars. For six years he performed dangerous stunts for Grace Cunard, Ella Hall, Marie Walcamp and others.

Dressed in woman's clothes he leaped from an aeroplane and landed on a motorcycle. He jumped from a burning building into a net. He fell from speeding freight trains—all for $60 a week.

But now he plays with the quieter things—explosives.

FASHION PARADE

By Orry-Kelly
Famous Hollywood Stylist Writing For International News Service

HOLLYWOOD — (INS) — Young actress, Lana Turner, who is less than six months away from Hollywood High School explained to us why school girls adored two-piece outfits. It is all a study in economics. They like to have oodles of outfits and by combining different skirts, with various sweaters, blouses or jackets to all appearances they have a new costume.

It was to uphold just such campus tradition that prompted Howard Shoup, one of the designers at Warner Bros., to make nearly all the frocks for Rosemary and Priscilla Lane in "Varsity Show" of the two-piece variety. Some of them have contrasting pieces and some of them match, but

A Testimonial in Song

(Written by Doron Green, and sung by members of Bristol public school faculty and directors, Monday evening, on the occasion of a testimonial dinner tendered to Miss Effie Watson and Miss Margaret Barrett, who are retiring from teaching service.)

We meet tonight with loyal hearts,
Our praises we proclaim,
For two who by their faithfulness,
Have won both honor, fame,
For many, many, years have they
A teacher's burdens bore,
But through those years of earnest
work,
A happy smile they wore.

Miss Barrett is a home-town girl,
Courageous, true and brave,
Who crowned the years with loyalty,
And faithful service gave.
Miss Watson came from Fallington,
A little Quaker dame,
Who stole our hearts and won our love,
And bears an honored name.

Around the festive board tonight,
Their praises we extol,
And marvel at those many years,
They fought to win the goal,
Tis nice to know when age comes on,
That we have done our best,
And tried always with honest hearts,
To stand up to the test.

Now that the parting time has come,
Tis hard to say good-bye,
But rest assured within,
Our hearts shall never die,
'Twas nice throughout the passing years,
Love's garlands to entwine,
And we shall often think of you,
And days of Auld Lang Syne.

only in a few instances do they all go in one piece.

There are some practical hints in these clothes because none of them are too swank for the school girl's expense account. One of them even has a skirt of heavy grey rayon combined with a tuck-in blouse of a Roman-striped cotton fabric. Another has both skirt and buttoned-up jacket of steel-blue and white striped tulle. A "cute" touch is achieved by putting a series of bureau-drawer pockets in the front of the jacket.

One of the sports costumes Priscilla Lane wears has an unusual print blouse. It is a tuck-in of brick-colored silk crepe with white print design of a girl and a boy paddling along in a canoe with round moon overhead. The swing skirt she wears with it is sharkskin in the new onion-skin shade... a reddish beige which will go with almost anything. It's wise, too, to have figured blouses figure largely in any wardrobe because a tricky print like this one practically makes any outfit.

One of Rosemary's matching two-pieces is of tan sheer wool made with basque waist and knife-pleated skirt. The blouse buttons down the front with composition buttons which are round and flat and each one has the grinning face in the full moon sketched on it. Another matching ensemble this young lady wears is white flannel with box-pleated skirt and action back jacket belted with lemon suede. The blouse and hat that go with this are lemon-covered.

Unusual color contrast is brought out in another campus ensemble done for Rosemary Lane. The skirt of this is pleated grey wool, the sweater is tangerine cashmere and the Eton jacket is lemon suede. The brief jacket has full three-quarter length sleeves for novelty. A calot of the suede tops the whole.

HELPFUL HINTS

An Ounce of Care

A few simple precautions will prolong the life of the rubber hot water bottle. Never run extremely hot water directly into the bottle, when it is first being filled.

Rinse it out with tepid water, then refill with hot water. Never fill the bottle to capacity, since that will make it uncomfortable for use, as well as being bad for the bag itself. Use it three-quarters full for ordinary purposes, and fill it only half for use against the face, or where it may be subjected to heavy pressure.

After the hot water is in the bag, do not fasten the stopper until you carefully press the top of the bag to remove the air. Then screw in the fastener. A strip of heavy adhesive tape often will prevent a worn place in your bottle from working through.

Double Duty

For a small sum, a tinsmith will make a vertical partition in your galvanized cleaning bucket. Thus divided, you can have a section of soapy and clear water in the same pail, saving many trips to the sink.

Ice Cream Bait

A little ice cream in that afternoon glass of milk will coax the youngster during the difficult Summer season. Make up a milk shake now and then, with straws for an added attraction.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

By ANN PAGE

COOKING for two days at a time in summer helps to keep the kitchen cool at least every other day. Cooking may be done on Saturday to keep Sunday an easy day for the housewife too, since her family makes it a rest day. If the two day plan does not work, plan meals that use quickly cooked easy to prepare foods, featuring salads and fruit if the budget permits. A good rule to keep in mind, however, is never to serve a meal without one hot dish, whether it be soup, beverage, main dish or dessert. It will help keep away summer indigestion and lagging appetites.

There has been but little change in the average prices of foods during the past week.

Seasonable foods make up the following menus.

Low Cost Dinner

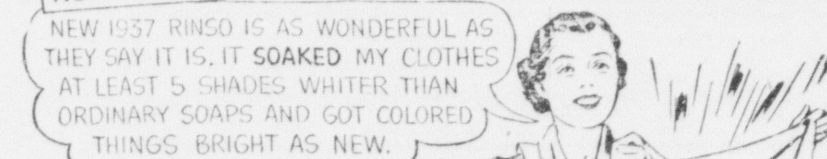

Cold Meat Loaf Potato Salad
Pickled Beets
Bread and Butter
Steamed Dumplings with Crushed Berries

Medium Cost Dinner

Consomme
Cold Roast Beef
Mixed Vegetable Salad
Sliced Tomatoes
Bread and Butter
Cantaloupe a la Mode
Tea or Coffee

Very Special Dinner

Cantaloupe
Cold Roast Chicken Parsley Potatoes
Cauliflower Hollandaise

HOWEVER

By Arthur Reid
Optimistic Mr. Roosevelt
No Compromise!
Connery's Bewilderment

The frequently remarked contrast between President Roosevelt's zeal for balancing the budget and his unquenched enthusiasm for launching new spending projects is explainable, to our mind, in terms of the cheerful temperament.

When the President's fiscal plans took such a bump with the failure of this year's revenues to come within several hundred millions of the estimates, most of us thought it time to call a halt. The slum clearance and farm tenancy legislation even then was pending in Congress, but it would not have been hard at that stage to put them on the shelf for future reference. They deal with admitted evils that, no matter how much was spent, would not be cured by what was done this year or next.

The President, however, would not see it that way. His laudable enthusiasm for setting the world aright in a hurry could not suffer a postponement and he sidestepped it by approving enactment of the slum and tenant programs in "skeleton" form. To this he has added lately another skeleton in the valley authority program with its brood of new TVA's.

Now, congressmen who have to run election year is to see them faced with the need of raising more revenue by taxation. Government skeletons seldom remain skeletons for long; too many people are interested in fattening them up. The programs now launched so modestly almost certainly will be demanding an enlarged share of fat in the budget to be drawn up next year, and the congressmen do not know where the money is coming from—unless from a tax bill.

It is obvious, nonetheless, that heavier taxation is far from the present thoughts of the Chief Executive. He is no more anxious than the congressmen to incur any such political liability on the eve of an election that will determine his control of Congress in the final two years of his White House tenure. What he is counting on, quite transparently, is an increased yield from present tax laws, to result from increased business volume and profits.

In other words, he is counting on the same ultra-optimistic hopes as to the rate of growth in business volume that let him down so rudely on his estimates of this year's revenues. A man of less cheerful temperament than the President, facing the almost certain political consequences of a revenue crisis on election eve, would have learned caution by experience.

With the idea of compromise again in the air, it seems necessary to state once more the simple issue raised by the President's Supreme Court plan. The President is asking, of Congress power to appoint several new members of this Court, the highest in the land and therefore the final authority on constitutional interpretations.

His purpose, frankly stated by himself, is to create on the Court a majority favorable to his own views of how the Constitution should be interpreted.

This is objected to, not because the President's views on the Constitution are wrong but because it amounts to a political invasion of judicial independence. Once invaded in this manner, the Court's independence might be invaded again and again, and for purposes that no man may undertake to foretell.

That is the issue and the sole issue. And, that being the case, there are some purported avenues of compromise which automatically must be ruled out as being beside the point. There could be no acceptable compromise, for example, on the basis of the number of new justices to be appointed. As long as the purpose was to influence decisions—which would be unavoidably the view taken of it under present circumstances—the creation of even one additional place on the Court would be no less objectionable than the creation of 60.

That seems unmistakably clear, and we hope it will be so to those who will have to deal with the proposed compromise supposed to come soon from the White House.

Representative Connery, of Massachusetts, one of the sponsors in Congress of the Administration's wage and hour standards bill, rightly foresees that this measure, to the extent that it raises labor costs, may promote the invention and use of labor-saving machines.

That would seem hunky-dory, since making production more efficient will tend to lower prices, compensate for the increased labor costs and raise the standard of living. However, Representative Connery also foresees that the new labor-saving machines will cut down the need for labor and, he believes, the opportunities for employment.

This, he says, will leave us with the alternatives either of reducing still further the hours that people may work or else of discouraging the adoption of machines by penalty taxation. He prefers the taxation alternative, even though it must seem odd even to him to propose penalizing the only method by which the standard of living may be raised. Presumably he recognizes that, since one still must work to eat, working hours can not be same or an even worse effect. Either reduced indefinitely without having the way he tackles his problem he will leave us, apparently, with a static standard of living or at least one that can increase only with extraordinary difficulty.

The Connery forebodings serve to show how readily regulation of the sort now attempted may lead the Government into a maze and the country into a blind alley.

FASHION PARADE

By Orry-Kelly

Famous Hollywood Stylist Writing For International News Service

HOLLYWOOD—(INS)—Cool and filmy negligees take on increased importance as summer rounds the bend. The spirit of the moment is to blend pastel shaded sheers with wearing one color over another to achieve new colors or to wear a sheer material such as chiffon over a shiny one such as satin.

Anita Louise likes the effect of two sheers. One of her loveliest hostess gowns is modeled on full, flowing Grecian lines and is made by posing a chartreuse yellow chiffon over lemon yellow. It is girdled with a narrow belt of pale violets. This dress fits in ideally with the delicate color scheme of Anita's drawing room.

More vibrant colors are needed for a negligee to fit in with the Monterey furniture Josephine Hutchinson likes in this part of the country. The foundation of her favorite gown is a sheath of burnished brown satin frosted with a redingote of tawny marquisette. Not only does this combination fit into the charming living room over which Josephine presides, but it is also becoming to the red-gold of her hair.

No material fits in more beautifully with an Early American interior decoration than lacquered chintz. This is exactly what Joan Blondell chooses for her attractive house coat. The blue background of the chintz is splashed with roses and is attractively made up with tight basque, full, floor-touching skirt and has tiny covered buttons all the way down the front from neck to hem. When wearing this coat Joan usually plucks a rose from her own garden for her hair.

Against the background of a formal period drawing room the Hollywood hostess is wise to appear in a formal hostess gown. In "That Certain Woman" the set designer has provided spacious rooms with highly polished mahogany furniture, so we have kept Bette Davis' clothes in the same spirit. In one scene she wears a sweeping tea gown of honey beige chiffon, fashioned with drop shoulder and deep bertha of selfmaterial. At home Bette follows this same idea of selecting clothes that suit the interior of her home.

Olivia de Havilland, who was born in the Orient and has many priceless Oriental objects d'art in her home, likes to carry this same theme out in her lounging clothes. Consequently she prefers sturdy mandarin coats to the filmy occidental hostess gowns and has the former in many brilliant colors.

LANDRETH NINE WINS OVER BLACK METEORS

Exhibiting a vicious batting attack from the first inning, the Landreth Seeds nine finally snapped out of its doldrums and administered a 12-1 lacing to the Black Meteors, last night on the Landreth ball diamond.

So great was the offensive of the Farmers that they produced a total of nineteen safe blows. The only player who did not connect for at least one safety was "Eddie" Liberatore who had two bases and balls and was hit with a pitched ball. The remaining players on the club from Rockhill down banged the pill for at least two hits each.

All the players shared in the scoring column with Rockhill, Liberatore and Dougherty counting twice. With the stick, Rockhill, Harwi and DeBoskey, connected for three solid hits.

Revenge was sweet to the Landreth-men who previous to last night had dropped three tilts to their colored adversaries. The only feature of the colored team's side of the story was a brilliant running catch of Purcell's long drive by Neely in left field. For the localites, Liberatore handled ten chances flawlessly.

"Pete" Heisley's hooks managed to keep the Meteors away from the plate for seven innings and when they did score the seedlets were enjoying a 9-0 lead. Heisley held the visitors to five bingles, which were well apart.

MAURI ROSE TO HEAD CONTINGENT OF DRIVERS

Mauri Rose of Columbus, Ohio, national automobile racing champion and the greatest Jewish driver of all time, will head a huge contingent of invading speed demons who will match speed and skill with Eastern headliners Saturday, June 19th, at the Langhorne Speedway here.

Rose's entry, announced today by Ralph A. Hankinson, is the first of many anticipated from the nation's greatest speedway drivers, who will come here direct from their exploits in the Memorial Day 500-mile Indianapolis classic.

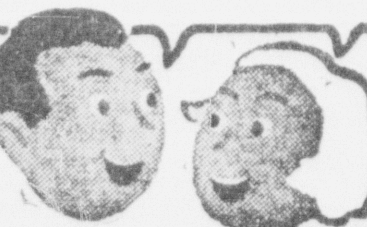

Negotiations with members of the elite "first ten" finishers at Indianapolis are nearing completion. Hankinson expects many of the big-money winners of the Hoosier classic to accept terms and come East for the Langhorne event.

Regardless of who he signs, Rose is certain to be one of the hardest men to beat. Gifted with driving versatility, the Jewish star is as good on dirt courses as he is on the bricks of Indianapolis.

His versatility enabled him to win the national championship last year. He put himself in the running for the speed diadem by finishing third at Indianapolis and then followed that performance up by scoring a series of point victories in titular events which enabled him to nose out Louie Meyer for the national racing togo.

Rose gave every indication that he would finish in the big money in the recent Indianapolis grind. For 200 miles he wheeled his giant two-man car over the Hoosier bricks at a terrific speed, but was finally forced out of competition because of motor trouble.

Under contract to a national automobile company as a consulting engineer, Rose's appearances in competition are limited under the terms of his contract, and for this reason his race here may mark his only appearance in the East this season.

Rose is not new to Eastern racing fans and drivers. He has appeared several times in the past, each time to win many followers and a greater respect from the Eastern drivers. In the coming event, he will man a new Miller single-seated race car.

eliminated the Superior Zinc Company nine from the first half race of the Bristol Twilight League last night on Leedom's field as they walked off with a 6-2 victory.

The tilt was more one-sided than the score indicates for the Oddies took a three run lead in the first and were never headed. They increased this margin two more in the third to earn a 5-1 lead which was enough to coast to victory.

Harry Minster was the winning twirler with the defeat going to "Reds" Cummons.
